as cold war battle lines are seemingly re drawn russia s various frozen war zones ongoing separatist conflicts are often cited as particularly volatile and assumed by some western commentators and policymakers to be next on putin s wish list but as helena rytövuori apunen demonstrates here this is a gross and dangerous oversimplification that will only serve to fuel the vicious circle of reciprocal military escalation drawing on a range of empirical research and across separatist conflicts in georgia south ossetia and abkhazia moldova transnistria and gagauzia and azerbaijan nagorno karabakh and the 2014 annexation of crimea from ukraine her timely book provides a balanced assessment and critique of the assumptions and misunderstandings that inform mainstream discussions as well as placing the conflicts in their proper and complex historical contexts at a time when there is an increasing tendency to view russia as the source of all instability in eastern europe power and conflict in russia s borderlands is essential reading for anyone interested in the geopolitics of post soviet russia as well as policymakers and practitioners of peace conflict resolution studies after the cold war africa earned the dubious distinction of being the world s most bloody continent but how can we explain this proliferation of armed conflicts what caused them and what were their main characteristics and what did the world s governments do to stop them in this fully revised and updated second edition of his popular text paul williams offers an in depth and wide ranging assessment of more than six hundred armed conflicts which took place in africa from 1990 to the present day from the continental catastrophe in the great lakes region to the sprawling conflicts across the sahel and the web of wars in the horn of africa taking a broad comparative approach to examine the political contexts in which these wars occurred he explores the major patterns of organized violence the key ingredients that provoked them and the major international responses undertaken to deliver lasting peace part i contexts provides an overview of the most important attempts to measure the number scale and location of africa s armed conflicts and provides a conceptual and political sketch of the terrain of struggle upon which these wars were waged part ii ingredients analyses the role of five widely debated features of africa s wars the dynamics of neopatrimonial systems of governance the construction and manipulation of ethnic identities questions of sovereignty and self determination as well as the impact of natural resources and religion part iii responses discusses four major international reactions to africa s wars attempts to build a new institutional architecture to help promote peace and security on the continent this architecture s two main policy instruments peacemaking initiatives and peace operations and efforts to develop the continent war and conflict in africa will be essential reading for all students of international peace and security studies as well as africa s international relations has samuel huntington s proposed clash of civilizations actually happened in the post 1945 era events such as 9 11 2001 or the crisis due to caricatures of mohammed might suggest it has the topic of culture and conflict has been the subject of fierce debate among scholars and the public alike over the last two decades the bertelsmann stiftung which has been committed to promoting international cultural dialogue for many years now is publishing culture and conflict in global perspective a theoretically informed definition of cultural conflicts and a world wide mapping of such conflicts between 1945 and 2007 the publication is based on an empirical study that explores in what conflicts cultural factors played a role and to what extent they influenced the intensity of violence in the respective conflicts the study and the explanations derived from it form an important instrument to foster cultural dialogue for peaceful coexistence in a globalized world politics and conflict in governance and planning offers a critical evaluation of manifold ways in which the political dimension is reflected in contemporary planning and governance while the theoretical debates on post politics and the wider frame of post foundational political theory provide substantive explanations for the crisis in planning and governance still there is a need for a better understanding of how the political is manifested in the planning contents shaped by institutional arrangements and played out in the planning processes this book undertakes a reassessment of the changing role of the political in contemporary planning and governance employing a wide range of empirical research conducted in several regions of the world it draws a more complex and heterogeneous picture of the context specific depoliticisation and repoliticisation processes taking place in local and regional planning and governance it shows not only the domination of market forces and the consequent suppression of the political but also how political conflicts and struggles are defined tackled and transformed in view of the multifaceted rules and constraints recently imposed to local and regional planning switching the focus to how strategies and forms of depoliticised governance can be repoliticised through renewed planning mechanisms and socio political mobilisation politics and conflict in governance and planning is a critical and much needed contribution to the planning literature and its incorporation of the post politics and post democracy debate in the late 1930s a number of american women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation's entry into world war ii while their story is fairly well known margaret paton walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that american intervention was absolutely necessary paton walsh recounts how the united states became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of american women who faced it as a necessary evil covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women's organizations informal women's networks and even male dominated lobbying groups in the great debate over whether america should enter the war some women favored aid to the allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct us involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a nazi victory paton walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day elizabeth cutter morrow whose son in law charles lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the neutrality acts to allow the sale of arms to the allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast soon other women joined this debate esther brunauer of the aauw journalist dorothy thompson and organizations like the league of women voters and national women's trade union league broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate american aid for the allied cause focusing on the conflict in europe paton walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the lend lease program for america's entry into the war but supported it nevertheless by late 1941 the women's division of the fight for freedom committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to britain to keep american boys out of battle this organization supported direct american involvement in the war as a means of stopping nazi oppression while most historians have focused on women's pacifism paton walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs our war too is a story of american women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace it expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on american public opinion over the build up to the war
