music authorship narration and art cinema in europe 1940s to 1980s investigates the function of music in european cinema after the second world war up to the fall of the berlin wall a period when composers and directors embraced experimentation through analyses of music and sound in a wide range of iconic films from across europe the essays in this book provide a nuanced reconsideration of three core themes auteur theory art house film and national cinema chapters written by an international array of contributors focus on case studies of music in the cinema of carlos saura jean pierre melville the polish school and romanian directors as well as collaborations between directors and composers including michelangelo antonioni and giovanni fusco federico fellini and nino rota leo arnshtam and dmitry shostakovich and peter greenaway and michael nyman the contributors shift the emphasis from a director centered view to the working relationship between director and composer and from the visual component to the sonic aspects of these films without ignoring the close correlation between soundtrack and visual elements enriching our understanding of the complex intertwined nature of authorship in film the role of film music and sound nation state and art cinema and european cinematic history this volume offers a valuable addition to research across music and film studies through a study of the contemporary german film movement the berlin school olivia landry examines how narrative film has responded to our highly digitalized and mediatized age not with a focus on stasis and realism but by turning back to movement spectacle and performance she argues that a preoccupation with presence liveness and affect all of which are viewed as critical components of live performance can be found in many of the films of the berlin school challenging the perception that the berlin school is a sheer adherent of slow cinema landry closely analyzes the use of movement dynamism presence and speed in a broad selection of films to show how filmmakers such as christian petzold angela schanelec thomas arslan and christoph hochhäusler invoke the pulse of the kinesthetic and the tangibly affective her analysis draws on an array of film theories from early materialism to body theories phenomenology and contemporary affect theories arguing that these theories readily and energetically forge a path from film to performance landry traces a trajectory between the two through which live experience presence spectacle intersubjectivity and the body in motion emerge and powerfully intersect ultimately movement and performance in berlin school cinema expands the methodological and disciplinary boundaries of film studies by offering new ways of articulating and understanding movement in cinema
